

Vikings Face Lake City Five

The Grayling High Vikings move into the Lake City gymnasium Friday night for their first conference battle after ringing up a resounding win over non-conference Lake City last week. The Grayling team, led by Coach Bruce Smith, took an early lead in the game and the final victory was never in doubt. Forward Jim Burch led in the scoring with 17 points but was ejected early in the third quarter on fouls. Center Mary Bleski tipped in 14 points for Grayling with Dale Pettengill, Monte Malonen and Rog Kessler each adding 4. Duane Worden, Allen Luckstead, Bob Barnett 3 each and Red Hamilton and Larry Pond 2 each. Ronnie Larson and Ted Davenport were both in the game but neither hit the scoring column.

Coch Bruce Smith used twelve men in the game and seems to have no lack for good material this season. Of the twelve men getting into the game, five have had considerable first team experience with the remainder having plenty of reserve game time under their belts. This could be a great year for the Grayling basketball team.

Besides meeting Lake City there this Friday, Fairview always a tough opponent, although only a Class B School meets Grayling in their first home appearance in the Viking gym on Tuesday night, December 9th.

At Mio, last week Tuesday, the Vikings reserves also pounded out a win as they took the little Thunderbolts into camp by a 41 to 26 score.

Camp Lehman Sees Thanksgiving Program

The Grayling seventh-day Adventist Church put on a Thanksgiving program for the prisoners at Camp Lehman Sunday, Nov. 23 emphasizing the thought "Be Thankful."

The main part of the program consisted of a dramatization of "The Grateful Samaritan" and how he returned to give thanks to Jesus for healing his leprosy while the other nine who had also been healed went on their way without stopping to express their gratitude.

Also, included in the program were a series of scenes accompanied by songs or poems picturing the many blessings for which one could be thankful; namely: Jesus and His love, the Bible as God's guidebook, America with its freedom of religion, abundance of food and plenty. Friends that stay by, home with its loved ones, and finally the joy of sharing all the above-mentioned blessings.

Sacred musical numbers were furnished between scenes by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zimowski, Mr. Floyd Fisher, all of Mio and the Mio Seventh-day Adventist parochial school teacher, Miss Bernice Lunz playing an accordion, a clarinet, a mandolin, and a saxophone.

Others who had part in the program were: Mr. and Mrs. Alva Stephan and children, Brad, Don and Kay Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hendrick and sons Jack and Roger, Clara Mae Wolcott, and Elder and Mrs. L. W. Hyde and daughters Karen and Christine.

Mr. and Mrs. John Alf spent Thanksgiving in Grosse Pointe visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Alef.

County Agent Walker Honored

Two outstanding Michigan county agricultural agents received national recognition Tuesday at the annual convention of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents in Chicago. Orville E. Walker, Kalamazoo, and Crawford county agricultural agent, and Burton C. Mellenkamp, Isabella county agricultural agent received Distinguished Service Awards in honor of their service to Michigan people through the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service.

Both Walker and Mellenkamp are native of the small town of Grass Lake in Jackson county.

Walker's outstanding career began in 1936 when he joined the extension service as district 4-H Club agent in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet counties. Under his guidance the 4-H Club enrollment in that area tripled in two years. Walker later had charge of all Upper Peninsula 4-H Club programs. He went to Antrim, Kalamazoo and Crawford counties as club agent and in 1948 became county agricultural agent for Kalamazoo and Crawford counties.

Walker has gained state-wide acclaim for his rotation and fertilization program employed in building up old, worn out soil. He has also been active in starting a silo building cooperative in his area.

Trailer Home Is Destroyed By Fire

The trailer home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Barber at the City Trailer Park was completely destroyed by fire last Saturday noon.

The trailer plus the entire furnishings were a complete loss.

The fire was started when Mr. Barber was using a blow torch under the trailer thawing out some frozen pipes.

The loss was not covered with insurance.

Kiwanis Club Notes

President Max Davenport spoke on the progress of the addition to the City Light plant which will house a new generating motor that is expected to be delivered here about the first of the year. At Monday night's meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Grayling.

The addition which engineers estimated would cost between $35,000 to $40,000 will be erected for a total cost of not to exceed $12,000, City Manager Davenport said. By using city employees on the construction along with locally hired help and buying materials here, the savings were made, he explained.

Lately the plant at peak periods has been as much as 100 kilowatts overloaded which has caused some of the outages in recent weeks, he added.

The new motor is capable of developing 800 kilowatts and it's being put on the line should halt the overloading problem, the City Manager said.

The motor is being purchased under a title retaining contract whereby the City of Grayling pays so much each month. If the payments can not be met for some reason, the only loss to the City would be the loss of the motor. No mortgage or bond issue against the city is involved in any way, City Manager Davenport explained.

Grover Cason and Eric Post were inducted as new club members with past Lieut. Governor Emil Giegling acting as inducting officer. He was assisted by Past President Earl Burns and Vice President Don Githro presented membership pins to the two new members.

Deer Season Toll Reaches Total Of 40 Dead; Up One

At Least 62 Others Are Wounded

Michigan's 16-day deer season of 1932 wound up Sunday night with an overall death toll of 40. Fourteen hunters were killed by gunfire, one more than the thirteen shot to death last year. The remainder of the deaths were mostly due to heart failures with two of the total deaths due to drowning.

Among the final deaths were Michael Sopsack, 41, who resides on M-76-18 between Grayling and Roscommon. He was mortally wounded at about 12:40 Sunday noon by a stray bullet while hunting with a party of men including his son, Paul, near the Sewell Fire Tower, about five miles south of Grayling and just east of US-27.

Sopsack, who had shot his deer earlier that morning, was back in the woods helping others of his party in getting their deer. He was struck in the back while walking along a trail. Death was instant, a companion who was walking with Sopsack said.

The dead man's son informed the Sheriff of the death. An investigation was carried out by Sheriff William Golinick and State Police. The body was taken to the Sorenson Funeral Home in Grayling.

Clifford Smith, 51, of Pigeon died at a deer camp near here last Friday of a heart seizure.

At least 62 were wounded by gunfire, compared with 57 for last year.

Conservation officials said the gunshot deaths this year were remarkably low for the first season in many years when does andawns were legal game over a large part of the deer range.

The toll was only a fraction over the 13.2 average in deaths in the previous 10 deer seasons when only bucks were legal. It was well under the 18 killed in both the 1947 and 1949 seasons and the 15 in 1948.

Despite heavy hunting pressure and increased shooting, the predictions of opponents to the liberalization of the deer laws.

Award Prizes At Lovells

About $150 in cash prizes donated by the businessmen of Lovells were awarded to several lucky deer hunters of that section during the deer season.

The Lovells group erected a meat pole in the center of their area to which hunters were asked to bring their bucks for hanging. Although warm weather kept the number down to only eleven, colder weather would have brought about thirty to the pole.

It was felt. Even so

A nice crowd turned out on Saturday night at the Town Hall to welcome the newly-weds Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hummel Jr. who arrived on Thanksgiving day to spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hummel Sr., and family. The Calamity Howlers...

In a recent editorial, the Wall Street Journal dealt with the question of iron ore reserves in the famous Mesabi Range.

In 1920, it seems, the experts estimated these reserves at 1,300,000,000 tons. Between then and 1951, 1,200,000,000 tons were dug and consumed. So, by a simple arithmetical computation, we learn that the Mesabi must now be practically exhausted and out of business.

However, despite the previous estimates, today's experts say that there are almost 1,000,000,000 tons still left—and the Mesabi is very much a going concern.

Of this, the Wall Street Journal said, "Within our own memory we have seen horrendous reports that our oil reserves or our coal reserves or our timber reserves or whatever stand upon the brink of extinction. Always, of course, unless the government steps in to curb production by some 'predatory' interests. But the government didn't and somehow the dire predictions have failed to come true."

Oil is perhaps the most dramatic example. Many years ago it was widely forecast that we'd be out of it in next to no time. Since then, we have used it in quantities that would have seemed absolutely impossible and inconceivable at the time the forecasts of disaster were made. Yet our proved underground oil reserves now are greater than ever.

What happened is that the oil industry found new sources of oil faster than it used the old ones up—and also found ways to recover more of the underground oil, and to make oil perform more efficiently when put to work in factories and homes and on the highways and railroads. And that is typical of free enterprise in all the natural resource fields. The calamity howlers go on howling. And the producers make them eat their words.

GRAYLING, MICHIGAN

 ALL CHILDREN PLEASE BE ON TIME BECAUSE OF THE FULL AFTERNOON SCHEDULE.

How would you like the fun of Christmastime to last all the year through?

That's the way it seems to be when you call this Buick beauty your own—what with the constant cheer it brings to you week after week, month after month.

The cheer of traveling in style that's bright and gay as a holiday wrapping.

The cheer of having rich and spacious comfort—plus the cheery thought that nowhere else can you get as much room for the mofey.

The cheer of knowing abundant and mighty able power is on call, with all the solid thrift of a Fireball 8 Engine

that's valve-in-head—and also high-compression.

The cheer of riding wonderfully buoyant, level and steady—with a ride that feels like the million dollars it cost to perfect.

The cheer of taking your travel free and easy—with Dynaflo Drive* doing the chores in letter-perfect smoothness—with Power Steering assisting to make parking and slow-motion maneuvers no task at all.

Even the price is a cheerful note here
 —low enough, you'll find, to crowd the so-named "low-price three."

That means action is called for this very

week, to make the most of this good deal while it lasts.

Why not drop in today or tomorrow and see how much cheer is to be found in a Buick showroom right now?

SPEEDWAY INVADES
GRAYLING

Speedway Petroleum Corp., which has had the most spectacular industrial growth in Detroit since the war along with its refining associates, Keystone Oil Refining Co. and Aurora Gasoline Co., has now opened a station in Grayling located on north US-27 and operated by Richard L. Nelson of this city.

In a little more than six years, processing of crude oil at the Speedway empire located on the borders of Detroit and Melvindale has increased from 5,000 barrels each day to 30,000.

Within the past few weeks stations have been opened in Roscommon, Houghton Lake, Pruden, Merrill and Grayling. Others at Cadillac, Manton, Clare and Lake City will be opened within the next week or ten days. All of this area is under a Saginaw area office which was opened in that city recently.

From 60 gasoline stations at the war's end, Speedway now has 400 retail outlets in Southeastern Michigan. Early this spring, 25 stations were opened at once in Flint. Fuel oil storage at the Speedway plant which covers nearly 100 acres on the western edge of Detroit, will soon be increased from 10,000,000 gallons to 52,000,000. About 80 percent of the oil processed by Speedway

State Reserve Wing
Selects Insignia

Michigan's own 439th Fighter Bomber Wing, the "Wolv-air-lins" selected their unit insignia during their November training week end at Selfridge Air Force Base. The insignia depicts a wolverine with jet aircraft wings growing from his sides. The name "Wolv-air-lins" and the insignia symbolize the fighting spirit of the state animal and the fighter bomber mission of the Wing.

The Wing trains at Selfridge one weekend a month. Through car pool rosters, personnel of this Organized Reserve Wing come from all parts of Michigan for their intensive on the job training. For this two day training, they receive four days pay, earn points toward promotions and retirement, and save their military status.

Although the "Wolv-air-lins" are the largest Reserve Fighter Bomber Wing, there are still many openings for qualified men and women. Both officers and airmen are needed in almost all Air Force specialties. Among the widest fields of opportunity are maintenance, fighter pilot, armament, communications, medical, air police, food service, administration, and motor vehicle.

Currently, the Wing pilots are flying the T-6 trainer. F-51 Mustangs will arrive soon with the jet aircraft expected later in the program.

The Wing also has C-46 aircraft available for administrative and cargo flights. Almost every week end, Reserve airmen have the opportunity of riding as passengers on these flights.

Men from Grayling and current with the 439th Fighter Bomber

Wing are: Major John H. Peterson of 507 Michigan Ave., and A/1c Ted R. McEvers of 803 Vine.

THE BIG YEAR FOR DUCKS

This is the year the duck hunters will be talking about for a long, long time. Some say the best in 15 years, others are more conservative, but all agree there are more ducks and more shooting in Michigan this year. Research has proved that the greatest single influence on year to year variations in duck hunting success is the weather. And the next most important element is the system of hunting regulations set up by the federal government whose job it is to control the shooting of migratory fowl.

Duck's Life is a Short Life

Professional and amateur ornithologists have been banding ducks on a gigantic scale in North America—and surprisingly enough the return of the bands has been very gratifying. Hunters are interested in the past life history of the ducks they shoot, so they return the bands and get the related information. Thanks to the banding, duck mortality can be studied, and from these studies the Fish and Wildlife Service has a pretty good lineup on the life of a duck, which is a little on the short side. In the Mississippi flyway upon which Michigan is located, the mortality for adult mallards is about 50% per year. In other words half the total mallard population lives from one year to the next. The other half dies from natural causes or from hunters' guns.

A University of Wisconsin survey has proved still more about mallards. Ducks of this species raised in captivity and turned loose in the fall have a much poorer chance of living thru the hunting season than their wild cousins. A female mallard's nest contains an average of 8 eggs. An average of 7 ducklings will hatch, and 5 will survive until they're ready to fly. By the time the hunting season has ended there's just one young bird left for each adult—just right for maintaining the population.

Redheads Take a Beating

Redhead ducks catch it worst from the hunters. They are the last to leave the nests in the spring and are consequently immature when the hunting season starts, and as much as 45% are felled by gunners. Predators and disease take another 35%, which doesn't leave much of a seed stock yet the redheads come thru in goodly numbers each year.

Flight Habits Change

Here in Michigan strange things are going on along the duck highways in the sky. Saginaw Bay got off to a good start as did most of the state. While other sections held up well, the ducks began to bypass the Bay area. In a survey the last week in October, only 42,000 ducks—many of them mergansers—were counted in Saginaw Bay. At the same time Lake St. Clair, and the lower Detroit River gave harbor to 420,000 ducks of all kinds, which of course means good shooting where the pressure is greatest and a correspondingly heavier kill. It all goes to prove that ducks are doing their share in '53 to make top sport for hunters in Michigan Outdoors!
